

SEVEN HURT IN AN "L" CRASH.

A Third Avenue Train Runs Into a Bumper at City Hall Station.

THE AIR-BRAKE WAS USELESS.

Passengers Thrown to the Floor in Wild Confusion and Women Became Hysterical.

FORTUNATE ESCAPE FROM DEATH

One of the Injured Goes to the Hospital, Others are Treated in Perry's Drug Store.

A Third Avenue Elevated Harlem train crashed into the buffers at the City Hall station at 9:55 o'clock this morning, damaging the engine front, shattering the heavy wooden bulkhead and injuring seven persons. Following is a list of the injured:

Water Gier, 345 West Seventy-second street; drop out over right eye.

John McCarthy, 1199 Fulton avenue, Brooklyn; contusion on left leg.

Nettie Tate, 8 Morris place; contusion on face.

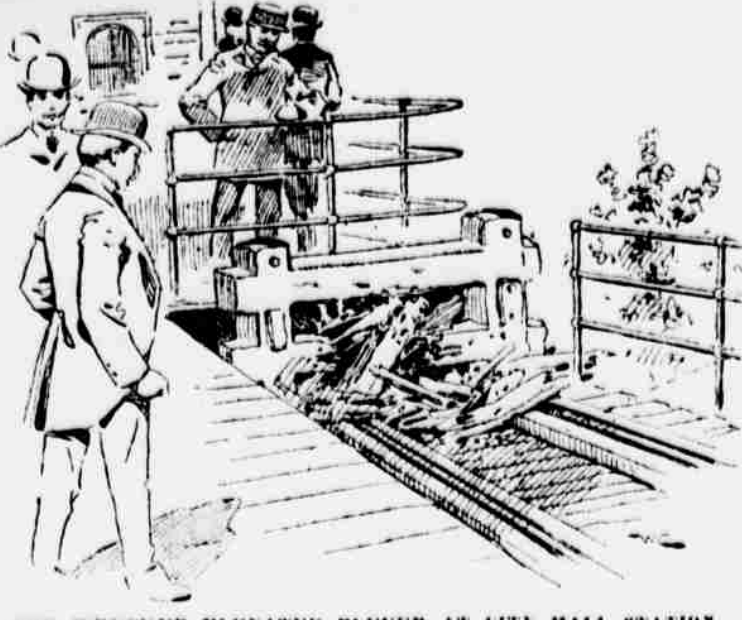

Victor Damber, 128 East One Hundred and Distributed street; injuries on right side of face.

Adolph Spens, seventy-seventh street and Park avenue; bruise on head.

Unknown man; left arm injured; refused assistance and would not give his name.

Cornelius Kennedy, Freshkill, N. Y.; promoted by shock and carried to New York Hospital.

Quite a number of other passengers were more or less hurt, but were able to go away without assistance.

THE WRECKED ELEVATED BUFFER AT CITY HALL STATION.

Engine 41 drew the train. As it neared the City Hall station Engineer Towers tried to stop it, as usual, but found the brake had become useless. The train entered the station at high speed and crashed into the bulkhead.

Passengers on approaching the station had risen from their seats when many were standing in the aisle when the shock came. As the engine struck the bulkhead the four cars recoiled and nearly every passenger was thrown violently to the floor.

In an instant the wildest confusion reigned. Women and injured men called for help, and there was a general stampede for the doors. Some frightened men even tried to crawl out through the windows.

Several women became hysterical, and at the sight of the blood on the faces of the injured, the panic became general. The guards at last established something like order and opened the gates. There was a rush for solid ground, and in less than a minute none but the injured were left aboard the train. Of these several lay for a few moments senseless on the floor, having been trampled upon by the panic-stricken crowd.

Policeman Young, of the Fourth Predict, turned in an ambulance call and assisted the injured passengers into Perry's drug store in the Pulitzer Building.

A New York Hospital ambulance responded to the call. On examination, Kennedy above was found to be severely enough injured to be taken to the hospital. He was badly shaken up and his condition is said to be critical.

The other unfortunate ones had their wounds dressed in Perry's drug store.
But for the anxiety of everybody to leave the train quickly it would have been seen that many more persons were injured.

Mr. Gier, whose forehead was badly gashed, gives this account of the accident:

"I was sitting on a cross-seat in the rear car, as we came into the station.
I noticed we were going fast, but supposed the engineer knew his business.
No one else seemed alarmed at the speed. Then came the crash.

"I was thrown violently into the opposite seat and struck my forehead against the corner of it so hard that the woodwork of the seat was smashed.
I was dazed by the blow, but remember seeing every one else thrown in a heap on the floor, and hearing them cry out.
There must have been about thirty people in our car."

Mr. Damber, who was in the car ahead, gave a similar account. He ended by saying:

"They may say it was caused by a defective brake if they choose. I know better. It was rank carelessness on the part of the engineer. He had plenty of time to slow up before we got into the station, or to find out that his brake was of order. As far as I could tell, he didn't even try to stop."

Another passenger said he was on the train with his wife and little girl. The three were standing in an aisle waiting for the train to stop. The woman and child were thrown, with great force, on their faces, and the husband, in an effort to catch them, wrenched his arm so badly as to almost dislocate it.

Policeman Young, on hearing the trainmen's version, said he believed it had been an unavoidable accident, and would not arrest the engineer.

A large crowd surrounded the "L" steps at City Hall and surveyed the wreck. The arrival of the ambulance and the blood-stained faces of some of the passengers aroused great excitement, and a long line of sightseers poured up the station steps to get a glimpse of the battered bulkhead and engine.

The iron fender of the engine was crushed out of shape and the entire lower front was more or less damaged.
The bulkhead was splintered and knocked out of shape from the force of the collision. The train itself was little damaged and no windows were broken.
After a delay of four minutes it was backed into the yard, and traffic went on as usual.

ENGINE AND CAR OVERBOARD.

Bumpers Gave Way and Let Them Into the River.

A singular accident that caused the drowning of one man, Joseph West, and another, David Smith, had a narrow escape, occurred this morning in Brooklyn, E. D.

Single as engineer of locomotive No.
58, of the Pennsylvania Railroad freight depot, foot of North Fifth street and Kent avenue, was engaged in moving cars about the yard.

He received a wrong signal, he says, and went ahead too fast with one car and struck the bumper at the edge of the dock.

Both freight car and engine went into the river in twenty feet of water.

Single saved himself by leaping from the engine to the dock.

West, who was a dock hand, forty years old, of Fifth Avenue, N. J., was standing on the end of the freight car, waiting to uncouple it from the engine.
His clothing got caught in some way, and he was carried down with the engine and car and drowned.

His body remained in the water in sight of a crowd of men for an hour before it was extricated. The swell from a passing steamer caused the body to loosen from the car. It arose to the surface and was hauled upon the dock by the railroad hands. It was later taken to the morgue.

CABLE CAR HURT HIM.

John J. Dennis, of Wisconsin, the Latest Victim.

John J. Dennis, sixty years old, of Wisconsin, who is visiting his son, Wellington at 213 Second avenue, was knocked down and severely injured about the head by an uptown cable-car at One Hundred and Nineteenth street and Tenth avenue at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

The gripman, Daniel Collins, was arrested.

Mr. Dennis was crossing Third avenue behind a car going south, when an uptown car struck him. He received a severe scalp wound and several bruises in the face.

Team of Horses Overboard.

A team of horses attached to a truck owned by John L. Boller, of 20 Vandam street, backed into the North River from the dock at the foot of Canal street at 9 o'clock this morning. The horses were drowned.

Will Be Tried for Murder.

Antonio Calzaro and Frank Fucello were induced today by the grand jury for murder in the first degree, for killing Michael Pansino on August 1, in South Fifth street. The three ASsaults were being played the piano. They got into a dispute over the music and the killing resulted.

DEATH LIST SWELLED TO 16.

Body of Peter Morriano Taken from the West Broadway Death Trap.

OTHERS STILL ENTOMBED.

It Is Thought the Work of Digging Will Be Ended
To-Day.

QUICKSAND THEORY DISPROVED.

The Accident Believed to Be Due to Overweighting the Floors.

One more name was added to-day to the list of victims in the collapse of the Irish Building at Third street and West Broadway. A body was found shortly before 5 o'clock near the northwest wall, where so many bodies have been recovered.

Later it was identified as that of Peter Morriano, of One Hundred and Twelfth street and First avenue. It was taken to the morgue.

During the night Contractor Galligan had 150 men at work, and as a result most of the iron girders had been removed by daylight. It is believed that at least two, if not more, bodies are still in the ruins.

The contractor hopes to have them out before to-night, when his work will be completed.

Altogether, fifteen dead bodies have been taken from the wrecked building.
Another victim died in the hospital, making the total dead so far sixteen.

The theory that quicksand was responsible for the disaster was shattered this morning. Many engineers, builders and experts, summoned by Supt. Constable, viewed the wreck. They looked carefully for any evidence of quicksand, but could find none.

The general opinion prevails that the accident was due to overweighting the floors and the undue settling of the building. Whether the building settled three or four weeks ago, as claimed by Lawyer Stevens, the experts refused to say.

Lawyer Stevens made the further claim this morning that the concrete foundations were not of the proper strength and thickness for such a building. He said the concrete should have been at least three feet thick, when in reality only one foot was used.

President O'Brien, of the Board of Walking Delegates, will call again today to make an examination of the building. He has secured from Cora-Fitzpatrick a certificate for himself and his committee to act as experts.

Superintendent of Buildings Constable called upon Coroner Fitzpatrick today and informed him that he had discovered that the central pillar of the collapsed building was sunk in the ground seven and a half feet.

Mr. Constable made an appointment with Coroner Fitzpatrick to visit the scene of the disaster this afternoon and go over the ruins with him.

SCALDED ON THE OCEAN.

An Intoxicated Cook Throws Hot Soup Over His Assistant.

Michael Tooley, of 25 Roosevelt street, chief cook of the Mallory line steamship Leona, was before Magistrate Cornell, in the Tombs court, this morning charged with felonious assault on the high seas.
Charles Ryan, of 224 East Twenty-sixth street, assistant cook on the vessel, said that on Friday night, when the Leona was one day out from Key West, Tooley and Ryan had a quarrel.
Tooley, under the influence of drink, throwing a large kettle of boiling soup at Ryan, horribly scalding "a left side of his face and neck and left breast." Ryan was put to bed under care of the ship's physician. Tooley was not locked up because his services were needed.
Magistrate Cornell remanded Tooley to Commissioner Shields, of the United States court.

BACKED BY PROMINENT MEN.

Miss Waterman Wants Her Brother, a Brooklyn Murderer, Pardoned.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—Miss Mary R.
Waterman came to see Gov. Morton today in behalf of her brother, who is a life prisoner in Sing Sing. She presented a petition signed by Judges of the United States Supreme Court, thirty-or more Congressmen, five Governors of States, some Lieutenant-Governors, State Senators and Judges and a host of prominent people. Gov. Morton is not here and no action could be taken.

The petition is made on the ground of ill-health, the certificate of Prison Physician Irvine being that young Waterman is dying of consumption.

Waterman was convicted five years ago of the murder of a man named Louis Hanter, a brother of Brooklyn. He was manager of a Brooklyn theatre, and went to live with Doran's wife, asserting that he did not know she was married. Later, in an altercation with the woman's husband he shot and killed him.

NOTED CRIMINALS CAUGHT.

Robert Morrissey, Once Implicated in a Murder, and John Taylor.

During the parade of the Abe Finkelstein Association on the west side, last night Central Office detectives gathered in two more notorious criminals.

One of them was Robert Morrissey, who was arrested in 1884 with Michael Mc-Gloin for the murder of Louis Hanter in a saloon-keeper in Twenty-sixth street, near Seventh avenue.

McGloin was hanged for the crime, but Morrissey escaped with eight years in Sing Sing.

The other prisoner was John Taylor, a colored man. Both men were caught trying to pick pockets in the crowd while following the parade.

WAS LILY LOW MURDERED?

The Grand Jury Will Try to Unravel the Mystery.

The presence in the District-Attorney's office today of Capt. Pickett, of the Tenderloin Precinct, and James Low,

Jr., father of Lily Low, who was found dead in the woods at Washington Heights on July 25, was taken as an indication that the District-Attorney intends to lay certain facts before the Grand Jury, to learn if the girl was murdered or committed suicide.

Capt. Pickett has had pointed out to him by Mr. Low the powder marks on the back of the girl's dress, and detectives are engaged in following up the clues given by Mr. Low.

When the case will be placed before the Grand Jury is not known. The District-Attorney declined to talk on the subject, but he is convinced the girl was murdered, and hopes the investigation now in progress will bring to justice her murderer.
